There's an old spinning wheel in the parlor — One of the attractions on the Chester County tour of Ante-Bellum homes Saturday and Sunday will be this old spinning wheel, in the parlor of Oakley Hall, now the home of Miss Margaret Saye of Rodman. An antique organ also is a feature of the room, along with other antique furnishings.

Oakley Hall — This one-time summer home of a Charleston doctor now is the home of Miss Margaret Saye of Rodman. The house was built by slaves in 1828 and is the largest house in the community. It will be one of more than a half-dozen homes on the Chester County tour of Ante-Bellum homes Saturday and Sunday.
